

Data Protection Notice on the Storage of Applicant Data after Completion of the Application Process

Only with your explicit consent will we review your application after completion of the application process for subsequent employment opportunities in our company and get in touch with you.

For this purpose, we store the personal data that we have received as part of the entire application process (e.g. in your cover letter, CV, certificates, applicant questionnaires, applicant interviews) beyond the end of the specific application process. Should you yourself disclose "special categories of personal data" in your letter of application or other documents submitted by you during the application process, your consent also refers to this data.

This consent also applies to data about your qualifications and activities from generally accessible data sources (in particular professional social networks) that the employer has permissibly collected as part of the application process.

You can withdraw your consent at any time. In this case, your data will then be deleted, provided that no further claims are to be expected from the application process. For a revocation of your consent, please contact max.mustermann@musterunternehmen.de or send it to our postal address.

Applications for which you have consented to their storage for possible future vacancies will be deleted one year after the end of the application process for which they were originally submitted.
